in their team of many of the players who appeared at Hull.

It is pleasing to learn the Australians have been looking forward to their second visit to Fartown. Mr. Harry Sunderland (one of the team managers) and Mr. Tom Gorman (captain) have been good enough to forward a few lines written specially for our followers, and we will now let them speak for themselves.

Mr. Harry Sunderland, Australian Team manager, says that the Australians are keenly looking forward to their visit to Huddersfield next Saturday, October 12th, and he pens the following message to Huddersfield supporters: "The Kangaroos appreciated the warm greetings your supporters gave us when we appeared at Fartown to see your game with Oldham, and we are looking forward to our match with you on October 12th. Huddersfield and clean football are synonymous terms with Australia. We treasure the fondest memories of the clean class of football that Harold Wagstaffe, Johnny Rogers, Gwyn Thomas and others of the claret-and-gold gave us in Australia, and we know that, win or loose, we will be able to have a good open game at Fartown, free from needless and unnecessary spotting. We remember that it was Huddersfield that gave the 1911

Kangaroos a 21 to 7 defeat after they had won the first test and played a draw in the second—and we know that Huddersfield is always hard to beat. People in Australia look on Huddersfield as a real Rugby centre with a great team. That is why our boys will appreciate a great day, a great crowd, a great game, at Fartown—and we won't mind if we are beaten so long as we all accomplish the main thing in having sparkling football that day."

Tom Gorman, Australia's captain, says. "I heard old players talk of the claret-and-gold when I was in my knickerbockers in bird's nesting days, and I have always wanted to play at Fartown. We will field a good team on Saturday, be all-out to do our best in clean open football, and we know that is the same style of game Huddersfield will give us."

Mr. Sunderland came over with the 1921 team, and Mr. Hennessy (trainer) was a member of the side that toured England in 1909. Every player in the present combination is making his first trip 'home,' so that the previous experience of the two gentlemen named will be invaluable.

Given a fine afternoon, we are very optimistic as to the size of the gate to-day. The visit of the Australians has been almost the sole topic of conversation in local football circles during the present week. We would also greatly desire ground conditions to be favourable to a fast, open game.

Our players will try hard to beat their clever opponents, and we could wish for nothing better than a repetition of the wonderful display of football seen in that memorable match at Fartown against the Australians of 1911. Let us give our visitors a real 'Fartown' welcome as they step on to the field this afternoon.

corn, where his Irish parents had settled after coming to Australia, via Torres Strait. His parents afterwards went to Toowoomba, where he learnt to play Rigger at the Toowoomba Christian Brothers' School, and has never played for any other club than a Brothers' team. He is 5ft. 9in.; 12st. in weight, and has been a central figure in Queensland's representative team from 1920 to the present day. Played for Australia in 1924 and 1928, and captained Australia in all Tests last year. He has done what no other star has ever done in Australia before—still representing Australia in his tenth year at football. At his best he could be mentioned in the same sentence as Wagstaffe, Messenger, Gwyn Nicholls, W. J. Wallace, and a few others, and the combination between him and the famous E. S. L. ("Nigger") Brown as centres at one period was regarded as the best ever. Is a salesman, and is captain of the Q.R.L. Christian Brothers' team.

W. Spencer (now of Bundaberg, Queensland) was born at Toogoolawah, Queensland, about 33 years ago. He enlisted in the Great War, and went into the line at Pozieres. He and Eddie Root the South Sydney forward, are the last of the 'Diggers' to represent Australia. Spencer is a great winger, and first was developed as a footballer because he could run. He still can. Got tries sensationally when Toowoomba defeated England in 1924, and came back into the picture this year by getting tries when they were needed. Is weighty and fast, and outside of good centres, is a most prolific try-getter. Is an hotel keeper.

Jack Holmes, one of Australia's promising new outside half-backs, is 24, was born at Glebe (Sydney) on October 14th, 1905, is 5ft. 10in., weighs 12st., is an electrical engineer, plays for Newtown (Sydney), and has done well in every game he has played this year.

William Shankland is 21, was born at Bondi (Sydney) on July 25th, 1907, plays for Eastern Suburbs (Sydney), is 5ft. 10½in., 12st. 12lbs., and although he played centre last year, and was a success, he has been a winner as a winger. He is working with an Hotel broking firm in Sydney.

Fred Laws, of the Toowoomba Newtown club, is 24, was born on April 30th at Brisbane, is 5ft. 11in., and 12st. 6lb. Fred Laws has been one of the most solid and reliable players Toowoomba has had since he went there from Warwick. He is a plumber.

Eric Weissell, a clever five-eighths, is from Cootamundra (N.S.W.), and played against the Englishmen in the drawn game there last year. He is a great all-round sport, an ironmonger, and was an immediate success in the test last year, when Australia won the third game. He played well with half-back Busch.

The vice-captain, P. Maher, a strong and rugged centre of the Dick Vest type, first played at Lismore, and then migrated to South Sydney, where he has played for New South Wales and Australia, and has been captain of New South Wales this year. Won his first match as captain, against the English team for New South Wales last year. Maher is a school teacher, and very popular with his boys.

C. Fifield, the Western Suburbs, Sydney, centre, is a replica of Jimmy Craig in build. He has been a success in the centre, and showed his versatility by playing on the wing at Rochampton when called to do so.

Joe Busch, the Eastern Suburbs (Sydney) half-back, was picked out by J. D. Campbell (he who played so well for years at Leeds) when he was playing in the country at Grafton. He played for New South Wales when the Blues beat England last year, and also in the second and third tests.

George Treweeke, of South Sydney, is the giant. He is a butcher, stands about 6ft. 3in. in socks, and has played enough big football now to know all the tricks. He came into prominence in 1927, played in all tests against England in 1928, and was one of the few certainties before the trials were played this year.

Peter Madsen, of Toowoomba Christian Brothers, is 27, was born at Warwick on September 16th, 1901, is 6ft., weighs 11st. 7lb., likes the out-of-door work on railway and main road construction. All the Englishmen who played against Madsen at Toowoomba last year know how good he is in a real game of Rugby.

Arthur Henry Henderson, the Queensland hooker, once played for Coorparoo, and is now at Ipswich. He is 28 years of age, weighs 12st 4lb., is 5ft. 9in. in height, and a motor spring maker by trade.

Henderson has had a great record with Queensland, but has never yet played for Australia.

Louis Victor Armbruster, one of the most versatile forwards Australia has, first repped for New South Wales from Mullumbimby on the North Coast, and then came to Queensland in 1924, playing for Toowoomba, Queensland, and Australia, against England, and being in a winning team in each case. He played in all tests last year. He is 6ft. 1in., plays for the Brisbane Valley Club, weighs 13st. 9lb., is a motor salesman, and was born on July 2nd, 1902, at Meerscham Vale, Richmond River, N.S.W.

Herb. Steinhirt, the tall Toowoomba Valley forward, stands over 6ft., is 13st. 6lb., fast, and handles well, and can play anywhere in the forwards. Is lock man for Toowoomba, and front row man for the State and Australia.

The second Test Match is due to be played at Headingley on Saturday, November 9th, kick-off 3-0 p.m.

For reserved seat tickets 5/9 each, apply: Mr. G. H. Ibbetson, The Pavilion, Headingley.

[Owing to pressure on space Club Notes are unavoidably omitted].
